Dear Mr. Cherne:

STAT I am delighted that you have agreed to [redacted] request to address our Advanced Intelligence Seminar on the Future of Intelligence on 6 February 1987 between 1:00 and 2:20 p.m. You will be giving what is, in effect, the "commencement address" for the class. The students, some sixteen in number, in grades GS-14 and 15 and Senior Intelligence Service (SIS)-1, will have been meeting over a period of six days to learn more about issues which will be facing them as they move into senior executive positions at the Agency in the years ahead. Among topics they will have been exposed to during the course are rapidly advancing technologies, Congressional oversight, possible future budgetary restrictions, decision-making for executives, attitudinal changes within the work force, Islamic fundamentalism and counter-terrorism.

The class meets at the Arlington Center Building (formerly Chamber of Commerce Building), 4600 North Fairfax Drive in Arlington, directly behind a new Holiday Inn. (A map is enclosed.) I understand you will have a car bring you to the Building. We shall provide you with transportation back to the Old Executive Office Building following your presentation. I suggest you plan to arrive at the Arlington Center Building about 12:45. A staff member will greet you at the door and escort you to the lecture room on the 10th floor.

STAT Should you have any questions, please contact [redacted] or one of his STAT colleagues in the Executive Development Staff on [redacted]. Thank you again for participating in our program of developing future leaders for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Sincerely,

Director
of
Training and Education
